Text, Texture and Cohesion

Text:

The word 'text' is exploited in linguistics to refer to any passage, spoken or written, of whatever length, that does construct a unified whole. According to Widdowson (1979), "a text is a collection of formal objects held together by patterns of equivalence or frequencies or by cohesive devices".

A text may be prose or verse, dialogue or monologue. It may be anything from a single proverb to a whole play, from a momentary cry for help to an all-day discussion on a committee. That is, geographical length is not important for a text, for example –

- a. A single word: "DANGER" on a warning sign.
- b. A stretch of language even though not a sentence: "NO SMOKING" printed on a wall.
- c. Plays or novels: Hamlet, Great Expectations, etc.

A text is a unit of language in use. It is not a lexico-grammatical unit like a clause or a sentence, and it is not defined by size. We cannot mathematically count that a text has two or three or... sentences. A text does not consist of sentences. It is realized by, or encoded in sentences.

A text is best regarded as a semantic unit, a unit not of form but of meaning. Thus it is related to a clause or sentences not by size but by realization, the coding of one symbolic system in another.

Texture:

The concept of texture is entirely appropriate to express the property of 'being a text'. This characteristic of a text distinguishes it from something that is not a text. The fact that a text functions as a unity with respect to its environment derives from this 'texture'. If a passage of English containing more than one sentence is perceived as a text, there will be certain linguistic features present in the passage which can be identified as contributing to its total unity and giving it texture.

For example – if we find the following instructions in the cooking book;

Wash and core six cooking apples. Put them into a fireproof dish.

The Return of the King Michael K. Snearly,2015-11-19 The clear structure of psalm groups in Psalms 107 150 can be interpreted as signaling a renewed hope in the royal Davidic promises Each psalm group of Book V is organized around a theme or key word that is related to the royal Davidic hope in the earlier sections of the Psalter Psalms 107 118 Psalm 119 Psalms 120 137 Psalms 138 145 Psalms 146 150 These words and themes figure prominently at the major seam psalms of the Psalter Psalms 1 2 and 89 Thus the content and subject matter at the end of the Psalter is integrally related to the content and subject matter at the beginning The editorial critical method used by Snearly is an extension of the method used by David M Howard Jr in The Structure of Psalms 93 100 Snearly also draws from recent insights in the fields of poetics and text linguistics in order to establish a linguistically based foundation for reading the Psalter as a unified text The methodology emphasizes parallel features with special focus on key word links This method advances editorial criticism by not only discerning links within a group but also showing that those links do not occur with the same frequency outside of the group
