Spirit And Invention:

The Spirit of Invention Lemelson Center for the Study of Inventi, Julie M. Fenster, 2009-06-09 An illustrated appreciation of America's spirit of invention which introduces unique characters whose insistence on change for the better made America what it is today. The Spirit of Invention is a fascinating examination of innovation as a driving characteristic of Americans from all eras and all walks of life. In this book we meet Gertrude Forbes a sickly widow so poor she had to live in her aunt's attic who overcame the odds to invent among other things an adjustable ironing board cover. We follow Cromwell Dixon a fifteen year old from Columbus Ohio whose dreams of finding a way to fly inspired him to invent a bicycle powered airship. We see John Dove an African American inventor originating concepts integral to the compact disc. We learn about Purdue University one of the earliest educational institutions to promote invention and engineering ideas. We eavesdrop on Thomas Edison in his laboratory in Menlo Park New Jersey and also find out about the beginnings of film colorization a controversial process that adds tint to film. And we read about Luther Burbank and how he revolutionized plant breeding. The book even reviews the invention of illegal devices such as the light wand which induced slot machines to pay out on every spin and we are introduced to a poker player who invented a holdout that allowed him to conceal cards in a shirt sleeve during games. The Spirit of Invention is the tale of America's history of innovation told in an engaging narrative style by a captivating historian and storyteller. Supported by a vast collection of archival material photographs newspaper clippings and illustrations Julie M Fenster captures a group most Americans know nothing about the dreamers and thinkers who found the need for a product be it practical or fanciful and saw it through to its creation. The book is an entirely fresh and fascinating examination of innovation as an innate force inspiring unsung people to do magnificent things. In Fenster's own words Invention is more than just an occasional necessity for human beings it is an impulse that helps to define the species. It emerges in the individual as a reaction to the splendid frustration of one's surroundings a response as basic in most people as having children to leave a mark and give a gift perchance for the better to the future. This is the inside story of the true innovators of our nation. The American Schoolmaster, 1928 The Religion of Technology David F. Noble, 1999-04-01 Are religion and science really at war with one another? Not according to David F Noble who argues that the flourishing of both religion and technology today is nothing new but rather the continuation of a 1 000 year old Western tradition. The Religion of Technology demonstrates that modern man's enchantment with things technological was inspired by and grounded in religious expectations and the quest for transcendence and salvation. The two early impulses behind the urge to advance in science he claims are the conviction that apocalypse is imminent and the belief that increasing human knowledge helps recover what was lost in Eden. Noble traces the history of these ideas by examining the imaginings of monks explorers magi scientists Freemasons and engineers from Sir Isaac Newton to Joseph Priestley to Wernher von Braun. Noble suggests that the relationship between religion and technology has perhaps outlived its usefulness. Whereas it once aimed to promote human well being it has ultimately become a threat to our survival Thus with The Religion of Technology Noble aims to redirect our efforts toward more worldly and humane ends The Spirit of Invention Francis Warner Parker,1913
