Facing Global Environmental Change Hans Günter Brauch, Navnita Chadha Behera, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, John Grin, Úrsula Oswald Spring, Béchir Chourou, Czeslaw Mesjasz, Heinz Kruppenacher, 2009-06-04 The year 2007 could perhaps accurately be described as the year when climate change finally received the attention that this challenge deserves globally Much of the information and knowledge that was created in this field during the year was the result of the findings of the Fourth session Report AR4 of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC which were disseminated on a large scale and reported extensively by the media This was the result

not only of a heightened interest on the part of the public on various aspects of climate change but also because the IPCC itself proactively attempted to spread the findings of its AR4 to the public at large. The interest generated on the scientific realities of climate change was further enhanced by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the IPCC and former Vice President of the US Al Gore. By taking this decision in favour of a leader who has done a great deal to create awareness on climate change and a body that assesses all scientific aspects of climate change and disseminates the result of its findings, the Norwegian Nobel Committee has clearly drawn the link between climate change and peace in the world.

Managing Water Under Uncertainty and Risk: United Nations World Water Development Report #4 (3 Vols.) UNESCO, 2012-01-01. Released every three years since March 2003, the United Nations World Water Development Report (WWDR) a flagship UN Water report published by UNESCO has become the voice of the United Nations system in terms of the state use and management of the world's freshwater resources. The report is primarily targeted at national decision makers and water resource managers but is also aimed at educating and informing a broader audience from governments to the private sector and civil society. It underlines the important roles water plays in all social, economic and environmental decisions, highlighting policy implications across various sectors from local and municipal to regional and international levels. Similarly to the first two editions, this report includes a comprehensive and up to date assessment of several key challenge areas such as water for food, energy and human health and governance challenges such as institutional reform, knowledge and capacity building and financing, each produced by individual UN agencies.
