The Week France Fell:

The Week France Fell Noel Barber,1976 The week France fell gives a vivid and moving picture of a country in defeat While the refugees leaving Paris struggled to keep one step ahead of the advancing German armies their political and military leaders were fighting not so much the Germans as among themselves There is Paul Reynaud the French premiere courageous in his way but hampered by his pro German mistress H l ne de Portes the arrogant General Weygand commander in chief of the French army and the senile Marshal P tain both committed to an armistice with the Germans There is the tall figure of de Gaulle who struggled so hard to persuade the government to fight on from North Africa And of course there is Churchill at the very heart of the story whether planning the war in London or flying first to the French army headquarters and then to the bomb scarred airfield near Tours in last minute efforts to bolster French morale Against this background of bickering and futility Noel Barber has arrayed a gallery of ordinary men and women whose lives were caught up in the tragedy They include Zena Marshall then a schoolgirl who had a terrifying journey from Brussels to Bordeaux after her school had been bombed Drue Tartire whom chance placed in a small room in Bordeaux next to P tain when he made his surrender speech and Corrine Luchaire the French actress who found milk to save just a few of the starving children among the eight million refugees who clogged the roads Jacket
