Translation and Multilingualism Shantha Ramakrishna, 1997 Shantha Ramakrishna Is Professor Of French At The School Of Language Literature And Culture Studies Jawaharlal Nehru University New Delhi She Has Published In National And International Research Journals

Literature in Motion Ellen Jones, 2022-01-18 Literature is often assumed to be monolingual publishing rights are sold on the basis of linguistic territories and translated books are assumed to move from one original language to another Yet a wide range of contemporary literary works mix and meld two or more languages incorporating translation into their composition How are these multilingual works translated and what are the cultural and political implications of doing so In Literature in Motion Ellen Jones offers a new framework for understanding literary multilingualism emphasizing how authors and translators can use its defamiliarizing and disruptive potential to resist conventions of form and dominant narratives about language and gender Examining the connection between translation and multilingualism in contemporary literature she considers its significance for the theory practice and publishing of literature in translation Jones argues that translation does not conflict with multilingual writing's subversive potential Instead we can understand multilingualism and translation as closely intertwined creative strategies through which other forms of textual and conceptual hybridity fluidity and disruption are explored Jones addresses both well known and understudied writers from across the American hemisphere who explore the spaces between languages as well as genders genres and textual versions reading their work alongside their translations She focuses on U S Latinx authors Susana Ch vez Silverman Junot D az and Giannina Braschi who write in different forms of Spanglish as well as the Brazilian writer Wilson Bueno who combines Portuguese and Spanish or Portunhol with the indigenous language Guarani and whose writing is rendered into Frenglish by Canadian translator Er n Moure

Crossing Barriers and Bridging Cultures Arturo Tosi, 2003 This text presents translators from different linguistic backgrounds discussing multilingual translation in the European Union All articles stress the political dimension of multilingualism and the professional role of the translator as communicator on which much of the credibility of a union speaking with one voice in many languages will ultimately depend

Negotiating Linguistic Plurality María Constanza Guzmán, Şehnaz Tahir Gürçağlar, 2022-02-15 Cultural and linguistic diversity and plurality are seen as markers of our time linked to discourses about citizenship and cosmopolitanism in the context of economic globalization in the late twentieth century It is often monolingualism however that informs understanding and policies regulating the relationship between languages nations and communities Grounded by the idea of language as lived experience Negotiating Linguistic Plurality assumes linguistic plurality to be a continuing human condition and offers a novel transnational and comparative perspective on it The essays featured cover concepts and praxis in which linguistic plurality surfaces in the public sphere through institutional and individual practices The collection adopts a critical view of language policies and foregrounds distances and dissonances between policy and language practices by presenting lived experiences of multilingualism Translation seen as constitutive to the relations inherent to linguistic plurality is at the core of the volume Contributors explore a range of social and institutional aspects of the relationship between translation and linguistic plurality foregrounding less documented experiences and minoritized practices Presenting knowledge that spans regions languages and territories Negotiating Linguistic Plurality is a thoughtful consideration of what constitutes language plurality what its limits are as well as its possibilities

Multilingual Currents in Literature, Translation and Culture Rachael Gilmour, Tamar Steinitz, 2017-08-23 At a time increasingly dominated by globalization migration and the clash between supranational and ultranational ideologies the relationship between language and borders has become more complicated and in many ways more consequential than ever This book shows how concepts of language and multilingualism look different when viewed from Belize Lagos or London and asks how ideas about literature and literary form must be remade in a contemporary cultural marketplace that is both linguistically diverse and interconnected even as it remains profoundly unequal Bringing together scholars from the fields of literary studies applied linguistics publishing and translation studies the volume investigates how multilingual realities shape not only the practice of writing but also modes of literary and cultural production Chapters explore examples of literary multilingualism and their relationship to the institutions of publishing translation and canon formation They consider how literature can be read in relation to other multilingual and translational forms of contemporary cultural circulation and what new interpretative strategies such developments demand In tracing the multilingual currents running across a globalized world this book will appeal to the growing international readership at the intersections of comparative literature world literature postcolonial studies literary theory and criticism and translation studies

The Changing Scene in World Languages Marian B. Labrum, 1997-11-27 The 1997 ATA volume brings together articles on translation practice into the 21st century Contributions deal with the Information Age multilingualism in Europe English as a Lingua Franca Terminology standardization translating for the media and new directions in translator training A comprehensive bibliography of dissertations makes this a useful reference tool

Exploring Translation and Multilingual Text Production Erich Steiner, Colin Yallop, 2013-02-06 The series serves to propagate investigations into language usage especially with respect to computational support This includes all forms of text handling activity not only interlingual translations but also conversions carried out in response to different communicative tasks Among the major topics are problems of text transfer and the interplay between human and machine activities

The Language of Europe Domenico Cosmai, José Manuel Durão Barroso, 2014-12-12 This book offers a clear and comprehensive introduction to the policy area of multilingualism and to translation practice within the EU institutions This first edition in English builds on the success among academics and practitioners alike of its two preceding Italian editions published respectively in 2003 and 2007 with the title Tradurre per l'Unione europea Milan Hoepli which have closely followed the EU journey through its successive enlargements and the impact of these multiple accessions on the politics and practice of institutional translation It proposes an in depth up to the minute analysis of the direct relationships between member state languages and the problems of knowledge transfer between the diverse languages and cultures that make up the patchwork which is the EU Enriched throughout with practical examples from many among the twenty four official languages of the European Union specially selected and adapted for an Anglophone readership The Language of Europe features detailed studies on the following topics the background to and arguments in favour of EU multilingualism the language features of EU documents variations in translation practice between the different EU institutions agencies and consultative bodies the day to day working practice of translators and lawyer linguists the impact of ICT on translation practice distinctive genres of EU institutional translation what the future holds for EU translation The volume incorporates a range of sample texts from a variety of EU official languages provided in the source language original and English target language translation in order to give the student and specialist an insight into and overview of the rigour and procedural expertise which are demanded and can be seen at work from initial co draft to final version in the rendering of a multilingual EU document

Translating Into Success Robert C. Sprung, Simone Jaroniec, 2000-05-15 The boom in international trade has brought with it an increased demand for addressing local consumers in their native language and cultural idiom Given the complex nature and new media involved in communicating with their constituent markets companies are developing ever more complex tools and techniques for managing foreign language communication This book presents select case studies that illustrate the state of the art of language management It covers a cross section of sectors each of which has particular subtleties in language management software localization finance medical devices automotive The book also covers a cross section of topical and strategic issues time to market scheduling challenges simultaneous release in multiple languages global terminology management leveraging Internet intranet and email centralized versus decentralized management models financial and budgeting techniques human factors management issues unique to language projects technological innovation in language management terminology tools automatic translation The target audience is language professionals involved with the management aspect of language projects This includes translators and linguists managers at language service providers language managers at manufacturing service companies educators and language translation students The heart of the book is the concept of the case study particularly the Harvard Business School case study model Industry leaders and analysts provide some 15 case studies covering the spectrum of language applications Readable and nonacademic it can serve both as a text for those studying language and translation as well as those in the field who need to know the state of the art in language management

Handbook of Translation Studies Yves Gambier, Luc van Doorslaer, 2011-12-21 As a meaningful manifestation of how institutionalized the discipline has become the new

Handbook of Translation Studies is most welcome. It joins the other signs of maturation such as Summer Schools, the development of academic curricula, historical surveys, journals, book series, terminologies, bibliographies, and encyclopedias. The HTS aims at disseminating knowledge about translation and interpreting and providing easy access to a large range of topics, traditions, and methods to a relatively broad audience, not only students who often adamantly prefer such user-friendliness, researchers and lecturers in Translation Studies, Translation, but also scholars and experts from other disciplines among which linguistics, sociology, history, psychology. In addition, the HTS addresses any of those with a professional or personal interest in the problems of translation, interpreting, localization, editing, etc. such as communication specialists, journalists, literary critics, editors, public servants, business managers, intercultural organization specialists, media specialists, marketing professionals. Moreover, The HTS offers added value. First of all, it is the first Handbook with this scope in Translation Studies that has both a print edition and an online version. The advantages of an online version are obvious: it is more flexible and accessible, and in addition, the entries can be regularly revised and updated. The Handbook is variously searchable by article, by author, by subject. A second benefit is the interconnection with the selection and organization principles of the online Translation Studies Bibliography (TSB). The taxonomy of the TSB has been partly applied to the selection of entries for the HTS. Moreover, many items in the reference lists are hyperlinked to the TSB where the user can find an abstract of a publication. All articles between 500 and 6000 words are written by specialists in the different subfields and are peer-reviewed. Last but not least, the usability, accessibility, and flexibility of the HTS depend on the commitment of people who agree that Translation Studies does matter. All users are therefore invited to share their feedback. Any questions, remarks, and suggestions for improvement can be sent to the editorial team at hts@lessius.eu.

Literary Translation Clifford E. Landers, 2001-01-01. In this book, both beginning and experienced translators will find pragmatic techniques for dealing with problems of literary translation, whatever the original language. Certain challenges and certain themes recur in translation, whatever the language pair. This guide proposes to help the translator navigate through them. Reflections on Translation

Susan Bassnett, 2011. This collection of essays brings together a decade of writings on translation by leading international translation studies expert Susan Bassnett. The essays cover a range of topics and will be useful to anyone with an interest in how different cultures communicate. English and Translation in the European Union Alice Leal, 2021-06-20. This book explores the growing tension between multilingualism and monolingualism in the European Union in the wake of Brexit, underpinned by the interplay between the rise of English as a lingua franca and the effacement of translations in EU institutions, bodies, and agencies. English and Translation in the European Union draws on an interdisciplinary approach, highlighting insights from applied linguistics and sociolinguistics, translation studies, philosophy of language, and political theory, while also looking at official documents and online resources, most of which are increasingly produced in English and not translated at all, and the ones which are translated into other languages are not labelled as translations. In analysing this data Alice Leal explores issues around language hierarchy and the growing difficulty in reconciling the EU's approach to promoting multilingualism while fostering monolingualism in practice through the diffusion of English as a lingua franca as well as questions around authenticity in the translation process and the boundaries between source and target texts The volume also looks ahead to the implications of Brexit for this tension while proposing potential ways forward encapsulated in the language turn the translation turn and the transcultural turn for the EU Offering unique insights into contemporary debates in the humanities this book will be of interest to scholars in translation studies applied linguistics and sociolinguistics philosophy and political theory

Institutional Translation for International Governance Fernando Prieto Ramos, 2018-02-08 This volume provides a state of the art overview of institutional translation issues related to the development of international law and policies for supranational integration and governance These issues are explored from various angles in selected papers by guest specialists and findings of a large scale research project led by the editor Focus is placed on key methodological and policy aspects of legal communication and translation quality in a variety of institutional settings including several comparative studies of the United Nations and European Union institutions The first book of its kind on institutional translation with a focus on quality of legal communication this work offers a unique combination of perspectives drawn together through a multilayered examination of methods e.g corpus analysis comparative law for translation and terminological analysis skills and working procedures The chapters are organized into three sections 1 contemporary issues and methods 2 translation quality in law and policy making and implementation and 3 translation and multilingual case law

Writing Between Languages Sheela Mahadevan, 2025-08-21 This open access book casts light on an understudied corpus of Indian Francophone literatures by writers originally from former French territories of India and from other regions of India who also engage in processes of translation Ari Gautier Pondicherry M Mukundan Mah Manohar Rai Sardessai Goa Toru Dutt Calcutta and Shumona Sinha Calcutta By examining the range of ways in which these writers write between languages Sheela Mahadevan advances theories of translation and literary multilingualism Moreover the book demonstrates how the self reflective process of translating Indian Francophone writing into English can be employed as a theoretical tool that unlocks fresh ways of conceptualizing literary multilingualism and translation Applying this methodology the author explores the ways in which the linguistic framework and region of the readership of a text can determine the visibility and effects of literary multilingualism and demonstrates how a text may consequently be interpreted as simultaneously monolingual and multilingual The book thereby also intervenes in debates about translation as research in Translation Studies Ultimately the book offers a more nuanced and alternative vision and understanding of the Indian literary landscape by exploring not only how and why Indian Francophone writers adopt French in their writing but also by demonstrating how certain regional literary traditions of India have been significantly shaped by French literatures owing to processes of translation undertaken by these writers The author also advances existing research on Indian translation traditions including the concept of transcreation and the meaning of originality in the Indian context Through the lens of Indian Francophone writing the book explores the various factors which trigger the fluidity of boundaries between translation and creative writing that is commonplace in the Indian context The ebook editions of this book are available open access under a CC BY NC ND 4 0 licence on bloomsburycollections com Open access was funded by UKRI Expanding the Horizons of Translation-Induced Language Change Edward Clay,2025-12
