Trauma And Addiction:

Examining the Relationship between Trauma and Addiction Shelly Wiechelt, Shulamith Lala Straussner, 2017-10-02
Trauma related disorders substance use and addictive disorders often co occur and frequently play a role in the problems and issues that social workers contend with in their practice with individuals families and communities Research shows that there is a relationship between trauma related symptoms and problematic use of substances and other addictive behaviors Individuals who experience these co occurring problems have better outcomes when their issues are addressed with integrated treatment approaches Trauma informed care and trauma specific treatment are therefore important components of effective social work interventions This book examines various types of trauma such as intergenerational trauma adverse childhood events childhood sexual abuse and minority stress amongst various populations and settings including Native Americans homeless youth drug court participants and LGB adolescents It also explores the challenges in delivering trauma services in outpatient addiction treatment settings Furthermore it provides practical information on how to implement trauma informed approaches in addiction treatment and offers insights into the experience of a trauma survivor who is also recovering from a substance use disorder This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Social Work Practice in the Addictions

Psychological Trauma and Addiction Treatment Bruce Carruth, 2006 Here in a single source is an essential overview of trauma treatment for people in addiction treatment settings Psychological Trauma and Addiction Treatment presents specific methodologies and techniques for clients in inpatient and outpatient addiction mental health settings The contributors leading clinicians and researchers in the field provide a comprehensive set of scientific treatment approaches addressing a broad spectrum of trauma disorders

The Correlation Between Trauma and Addiction Johanna O'Flaherty, 2014-11-29 A succinct and compelling treatise on the bio psycho social effects of trauma and the connections between trauma and addiction as well as how these conditions facilitate each other The challenges of working effectively with those struggling with trauma and co occurring addiction in treatment settings are presented along with recommended approaches for those in treatment and early addiction recovery There is a clear relationship between trauma and addiction Although addiction is not caused by trauma and trauma is not caused by addiction it has become increasingly clear that trauma and addiction frequently go together Extensive research suggests that approximately 50 percent of people with histories of addiction have experienced trauma Based on different scientific studies the percentage of people with both trauma and addiction ranges from about 20 percent to as high as 80 percent with the figure being somewhat higher for women than for men The connection between trauma and addiction is a two way street trauma increases the risk of developing addiction and active addiction increases the likelihood of experiencing trauma
