Empowering Ourselves and Transforming Schools Judith W. Irwin, 1996-09-12 In this readable and ground breaking text Irwin examines the forces that keep educators and students from feeling fully empowered She defines empowerment as gaining the power to self actualize and to facilitate this for others Grounding her arguments in feminist and critical examinations of domination Irwin begins by defining empowerment as fundamentally opposed to domination She then examines the implications of this definition for our educational system This book encourages the reader to consider new directions for educational reform and synthesizes current innovations under the umbrella philosophy of empowerment suggesting how the change from the patriarchal paradigm to one based on cooperation and connection might revolutionize the organization of schools and their classrooms The reader is challenged to develop his or her own philosophy and agenda for change through a series of reflective activities A comparative case study of five empowered teachers is included to demonstrate that empowerment is an individual as well as a collective process

Transforming Schools Using Project-Based Learning, Performance Assessment, and Common Core Standards Bob Lenz, Justin Wells, Sally Kingston, 2015-01-27 It's not what students know but what they do with what they know that is important. Schools are changing in response to this reality and in Transforming Schools Using Project Based Learning Performance Assessment and Common Core Standards Bob Lenz, Justin Wells and Sally Kingston draw on the example of the Envision Education schools as well as other leading schools around the country to show how the concept of deeper learning can meet the need for students who are both college and career ready and engaged in their own education. In this book the authors explain how project based learning can blend with Common Core aligned performance assessment for deeper learning. You'll discover how many schools have successfully made the transition from traditional teacher centered learning to project based deeper learning and find many practical ideas for implementation. Companion DVD and website include videos showing how to implement deeper learning strategies in the classroom. Evidence based descriptions show why deeper learning is right for students. Performance assessment experts explain how to align assessments with Common Core by shifting the emphasis from knowing to doing. Extensive game plan section provides step by step guidance for change. Schools are complex organizations and transformation involves all of the stakeholders from students to superintendents. But as this book shows there are amazing benefits to be realized when everyone commits to diving deeper into learning.

Transforming Schools Miranda Jefferson, Michael Anderson, 2017-02-09 Transforming Schools demonstrates how transformation is no longer an option in teaching and learning it has become a necessity. Changes in the way we work and the challenges of issues such as climate change, poverty and migration mean that teaching and learning need to alter to incorporate capacities that will help us meet those challenges. The 4Cs Creativity, Critical Reflection, Communication and Collaboration have long been present in education but Transforming Schools demonstrates how schools can change teaching and leadership to embed and enact the 4Cs to make them central to dynamic and exciting learning Miranda Jefferson and Michael Anderson demonstrate how a renewed approach to teaching that integrates the 4Cs can better equip today's learners They draw on their own international research and experiences in school transformation in a variety of school settings working in partnership with practitioners researchers students and the community The authors consider how schools might reorganise themselves to become more relevant to their students and to the community Practical strategies for transformation are included throughout the chapters to demonstrate how learning can be supported and how the 4Cs can be made explicit in schools These examples will support school leadership teams and teachers to explicitly teach the 4Cs in relevant and challenging ways This book is essential reading for those looking to transform schools and more effectively meet the needs of today's learners Transforming Schools for Excellence Tiffany C. Anderson, 2012-08 Its easier to build strong children than to repair broken men These powerful words from Frederick Douglas are at the heart of Dr Tiffany Anderson's pragmatic practical compassionate mission to reform our educational system In Transforming Schools for Excellence Dr Anderson gives aspiring and current leaders tools and strategies to eliminate the achievement gap and improve both schools and the communities they serve Dr Anderson includes personal stories and researched best practices but more importantly these are strategies she has proven repeatedly making her a recognized and award winning leader in education reform No matter how long you have been in the field of education this book will inspire you to challenge the status quo and empower you to take action to improve your school with Dr Anderson's insights providing a blueprint for improvement Transforming Schools Shirley A. Thornton, Bonnie Spiesberger, California. Special Education Division, Resources in Special Education, 1994 Transforming Schools with Technology Andrew A. Zucker, 2008 In this timely and thoughtful book Andrew Zucker argues that technology can and will play a central role in efforts to achieve crucial education goals and that it will be an essential component of further improvement and transformation of schools The book is marked not only by Zucker's cutting edge sophistication about digital technologies but also by his longstanding engagement with and commitment to K-12 education It is destined to be recognized as the crucial volume on digital technology and education and it will be essential reading for school leaders and teachers policymakers and those members of the general public among them parents and engaged citizens for whom the fate of education is a vital concern Transforming Schools for Multilingual Learners Debbie Zacarian, 2022-12-06 Essential principles practices and structures for multilingual learners Much has changed in the ten years since this book was first published A celebrated triumph it provided state district school and teacher leaders with a comprehensive guide to support multilingual learners to reach their full potential From selecting the appropriate program model to partnering with families and infusing federal and state laws governing the education of multilingual learners and the rights of their families into all we do the key messages that made the first edition of this book a renowned success have been re-examined in the second edition with a robust lens to meet these demanding times This second edition supports educators to design and enact policies practices and structures for multilingual learners MLs to feel a sense of safety belonging value and competence Topics explored in the book include a discussion of the changes to federal and state policies and their impact on MLs and their families strategies to move from a deficit to an asset based approach that values multilingualism nine principles to design and deliver high quality lessons in multiple languages and across disciplines practices to identify and support MLs with learning differences and disabilities steps for building long lasting family school partnerships Reflecting changing trends in leadership this new edition supports superintendents principals curriculum supervisors coaches mentors teachers and other stakeholders in their collaborative efforts to create and sustain successful language assistance programs
