D. Faber,2010-06-03 In this insightful new study M D Faber whose previous work on the psychology of religion has won widespread critical acclaim offers a comprehensive naturalistic explanation of religious experience from the intertwining perspectives of neuroscience and developmental psychology Faber here argues that belief in God the powerful sensation of his presence and the heartfelt assent to the reality of the supernatural are all produced by the mind brain's inherent tendency to discover in religious narrative a striking memorial echo of its own biological development Although Faber maintains that we are not wired specifically for God as many contend our brain is so constructed as to make us profoundly susceptible to religious myths These myths encourage us to map our early internalized experience onto a variety of supernatural narratives with the figure of the Parent God and his angelic assistants at the center A key point of Faber's analysis is the connection between the onset of infantile amnesia during childhood's later years and the evocative power of religious mythology Although we cannot explicitly recall our earliest interactions with our parents or other caregivers religious narratives can and do jog these implicit emotional memories in an uncanny way which prompts us to accede to religion's central tenet namely that we are in the care of an omnipotent parental provider who watches over us and ministers to our needs In the final analysis religious experience attempts to recapture and to reinstate in an idealized form the symbiotic union of the early parent child relation This pioneering highly original work takes the reader to the neurological psychological bedrock of religious experience

"When Gods Were Men" Esther J. Hamori,2008-08-27 In the texts of Genesis 18 and 32 God appears to a patriarch in person and is referred to by the narrator as a man both times by the Hebrew word sh In both texts God as sh is described in graphically human terms This type of divine appearance is identified here as the sh theophany The phenomenon of God appearing in concrete human form is first distinguished from several other types of anthropomorphism such as divine appearance in dreams The sh theophany is viewed in relation to appearances of angels and other divine beings in the Bible and in relation to anthropomorphic appearances of deities in Near Eastern literature The sh theophany has implications for our understanding of Israelite concepts of divine human contact and communication and for the relationship to Ugaritic literature in particular The book also includes discussion of philosophical approaches to anthropomorphism The development of philosophical opposition to anthropomorphism can be traced from Greek philosophy and early Jewish and Christian writings through Avicenna Averroes Maimonides and Aquinas and into the work of later philosophers such as Hume and Kant However the work of others can be applied fruitfully to the problem of divine anthropomorphism such as Wittgenstein's language games The Coward Behind the Curtain Richard Marsh,1908 An Angel's Touch Cheryl Salem,Harry Salem,1997 Cheryl Salem in collaboration with her husband Harry recount her testimony of encounters with angels Drawn to study of the Scriptures the Salems reveal the presence and purpose of these supernatural beings in the earth today
