Smart Card. Research and Applications Jean-Jacques Quisquater, Bruce Schneier, 2006-12-30 Smart cards have been driven by the need for a secure portable computing platform Hence it is no surprise that security considerations dominated their research The CARDIS conferences were created to provide a forum for this research CARDIS 1998 is the third international conference on Smart Card Research and Advanced Applications held in Louvain la Neuve Belgium 14 16 September 1998 The first CARDIS was held in Lille France in November 1994 and the second was held in Amsterdam The Netherlands in September 1996 The fourth CARDIS is scheduled to take place in Bristol UK in September 2000 <http://www.cardis.org> This volume contains the refereed papers presented at CARDIS 1998 These 35 papers were first published in a pre-proceedings and distributed to the attendees at the conference they have subsequently been revised and updated for this volume The papers discuss all aspects of smart card research Java cards electronic commerce applications efficiency security including cryptographic algorithms cryptographic protocols and authentication and architecture Submissions from Europe the U S Asia and Australia show that this is indeed an international area of research and one that is becoming more popular as practical demand for smart cards increase We wish to thank the Program Committee members who did an excellent job in reviewing papers and providing feedback to the authors

Smart Card Research and Advanced Applications Josep Domingo-Ferrer, David Chan, Anthony Watson, 2000-09-30 Smart cards or IC cards offer a huge potential for information processing purposes The portability and processing power of IC cards allow for highly secure conditional access and reliable distributed information processing IC cards that can perform highly sophisticated cryptographic computations are already available Their application in the financial services and telecom industries are well known But the potential of IC cards go well beyond that Their applicability in mainstream Information Technology and the Networked Economy is limited mainly by our imagination the information processing power that can be gained by using IC cards remains as yet mostly untapped and is not well understood Here lies a vast uncovered research area which we are only beginning to assess and which will have a great impact on the eventual success of the technology The research challenges range from electrical engineering on the hardware side to tailor made cryptographic applications on the software side and their synergies This volume comprises the proceedings of the Fourth Working Conference on Smart Card Research and Advanced Applications CARDIS 2000 which was sponsored by the International Federation for Information Processing IFIP and held at the Hewlett Packard Labs in the United Kingdom in September 2000 CARDIS conferences are unique in that they bring together researchers who are active in all aspects of design of IC cards and related devices and environments thus stimulating synergy between different research communities from both academia and industry This volume presents the latest advances in smart card research and applications and will be essential reading for smart card developers smart card application developers and computer science researchers involved in computer architecture computer security and cryptography

In the Information Society, the smart card or smart device with its processing power and link to its owner will be the potential human representation or delegate in Ambient Intelligence. Pervasive Computing, where every appliance or computer will be connected and where control and trust of the personal environment will be the next decade challenge. Smart card research is of increasing importance as the need for information security grows rapidly. Smart cards will play a very large role in ID management in secure systems. In many computer science areas, smart cards introduce new dimensions and opportunities. Disciplines like hardware design, operating systems, modeling systems, cryptography, and distributed systems find new areas of applications or issues. Smart cards also create new challenges for these domains. CARDIS, the IFIP Conference on Smart Card Research and Advanced Applications, gathers researchers and technologists who are focused in all aspects of the design, development, deployment, validation, and application of smart cards or smart personal devices. This volume contains the 20 papers that have been selected by the CARDIS Program Committee for presentation at the 6th International Conference on Smart Card Research and Advanced Applications (CARDIS 2004) which was held in conjunction with the IFIP 18th World Computer Congress in Toulouse, France, in August 2004 and sponsored by the International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP). With 20% of the papers coming from Asia, 20% from America, and 60% from Europe, the competition was particularly severe this year with only 20 papers selected out of 45 very good submissions. Smart Card Research and Advanced Applications VI presents the latest advances in smart card research and
