To This Place:

Becoming Native to this Place Wes Jackson, 1993 The New World this empty land dazzlingly rich in forests soils rainfall and mineral wealth was to represent a new beginning for civilized humanity Unfortunately even the best of the European settlers had a stronger eye for conquest than for justice Natives were in the way surplus people who must be literally displaced Now as ecologist West Jackson points out descendants of those early beneficiaries of conquest find themselves the displaced persons forced to vacate the family farmsteads and small towns of our heartland leaving vacant the schools churches hardware stores and barber shops In a ringing cry for a changed relation to the land Jackson urges modern Americans to become truly native to this place to base our culture and agriculture on nature's principles to recycle as natural ecosystems have for millions of years The task is more difficult now he argues because so much cultural information has been lost and because the ecological capital necessary to grow food in a sustainable way has been seriously eroded Where to begin Jackson suggests we start with those thousands of small towns and rural communities literally falling down or apart We have no money to pay for the process and little cultural awareness to support it but here are the places where a new generation of homecomers people who want to go to a place and dig in can become the new pioneers operating on a set of assumptions and aspirations different from those of their ancestors These new pioneers will have to set up the books for ecological community accounting If they dig deep enough and long enough urges Jackson a new kind of economy will emerge So will a rich culture with its own art and artifacts
