State Formation In Early China:

State Formation in Early China Li Liu, Xingcan Chen, 2003-10-23 A study that makes use of an interdisciplinary approach to challenge traditional theories of state formation in China and promote debate on early Chinese history Analyzing data from archaeology geology cultural geography ethnohistory and ancient texts the authors show how the procurement of key external resources especially metal and salt drove the dynamics of state formation in early China in the period of 1800-1400BC

Social Memory and State Formation in Early China Min Li (Anthropologist), 2018

War and State Formation in Ancient China and Early Modern Europe Victoria Tin-bor Hui, 2005-07-04 The Eurocentric conventional wisdom holds that the West is unique in having a multi state system in international relations and liberal democracy in state society relations At the same time the Sinocentric perspective believes that China is destined to have authoritarian rule under a unified empire In fact China in the Spring and Autumn and Warring States periods 656-221 BC was once a system of sovereign territorial states similar to Europe in the early modern period Both cases witnessed the prevalence of war formation of alliances development of the centralized bureaucracy emergence of citizenship rights and expansion of international trade This book first published in 2005 examines why China and Europe shared similar processes but experienced opposite outcomes This historical comparison of China and Europe challenges the presumption that Europe was destined to enjoy checks and balances while China was preordained to suffer under a coercive universal status

Social Memory and State Formation in Early China Min Li, 2018-04-30 In this book Li Min proposes a new paradigm for the foundation and emergence of the classical tradition in early China from the late Neolithic through the Zhou period Using a wide range of historical and archaeological data he explains the development of ritual authority and particular concepts of kingship over time in relation to social memory His volume weaves together the major benchmarks in the emergence of the classical tradition particularly how legacies of prehistoric interregional interactions state formation urban florescence and collapse during the late third and the second millenniums BCE laid the critical foundation for the Sandai notion of history among Zhou elite Moreover the literary historical accounts of the legendary Xia Dynasty in early China reveal a cultural construction involving social memories of the past and subsequent political elaborations in various phases of history This volume enables a new understanding on the long term processes that enabled a classical civilization in China to take shape

Mining, Trade and State Formation in Early China Tao Shi, 2018 This dissertation aims at exploring the trade strategy and center periphery relations in the process of state formation in early China The focus is the Longshan and Erlitou periods ca 2300-1520 BCE Instead of a center based perspective this research focuses on peripheries and discusses the impact of peripheral societies on the formation of the political economic landscape of early states By taking resource extraction and distribution as a departure point I discuss the production modes economic forms and social contexts in three resource rich regions which were significant sources of key resources in early China Based on my estimation on scales of mining and mining landscapes I argue that turquoise and copper mining and mining related productions were all local small scale and village based activities during the two periods The current evidence shows that early states did not place direct control over resource extraction and distribution in these peripheral regions Moreover based on the arguments and comparative cases in other regions of the world I further argue that the strategy of resource procurement of early states was never monopolistic Rather the Longshan and Erlitou period states adopted a decentralized strategy to procure key resources By considering Erlitou as a phenomenon of regeneration after Longshan collapses I argue that the center periphery relations maintained a strong continuity in this transitional period

The Oxford Handbook of Early China Elizabeth Childs-Johnson,2020-10-23 The Oxford Handbook on Early China brings 30 scholars together to cover early China from the Neolithic through Warring States periods ca 5000 500BCE The study is chronological and incorporates a multidisciplinary approach covering topics from archaeology anthropology art history architecture music and metallurgy to literature religion paleography cosmology religion prehistory and history

The Imperial Network in Ancient China Maxim Korolkov,2021-11-18 This book examines the emergence of imperial state in East Asia during the period ca 400 BCE 200 CE as a network based process showing how the geography of early interregional contacts south of the Yangzi River informed the directions of Sinitic state expansion Drawing from an extensive collection of sources including transmitted textual records archaeological evidence excavated legal manuscripts and archival documents from Liye this book demonstrates the breadth of human and material resources available to the empire builders of an early imperial network throughout southern East Asia from institutions and infrastructures to the relationships that facilitated circulation This network is shown to have been essential to the consolidation of Sinitic imperial rule in the sub tropical zone south of the Yangzi against formidable environmental epidemiological and logistical odds This is also the first study to explore how the interplay between an imperial network and alternative frameworks of long distance interaction in ancient East Asia shaped the political economic trajectory of the Sinitic world and its involvement in Eurasian globalization Contributing to debates around imperial state formation the applicability of world system models and the comparative study of empires The Imperial Network in Ancient China will be of significant interest to students and scholars of East Asian studies archaeology and history

War and State Formation in Ancient China and Early Modern Europe Victoria Tin-bor Hui,2014-05-14 This book first published in 2005 explores why China and Europe s development of state systems began similarly but experienced opposite outcomes

The East Asian World-System Eugene N. Anderson,2019-06-04 This book studies the East Asian world system and its dynastic cycles as they were influenced by climate and demographic change diseases the expansion of trade and the rise of science and technology By studying the history of East Asia until the beginning of the 20th century and offering a comparative perspective on East Asian countries including China Japan and Korea it describes the historical evolution of the East Asian world system as being the result of good or poor management of the respective populations and environments Lastly the book discusses how the East Asian regions have become integrated into a single world system by a combination of trade commerce and military action Given its scope the book will appeal to scholars of history sociology political science and environmental studies and to anyone interested in learning about the effects of climate change on the dynamic development of societies

Before Colonization
Charles R. Butcher, Ryan D. Griffiths, 2025-07-08 Prior to European colonization the world was thickly populated with hundreds of independent states and vibrant regional state systems Yet these states are typically excluded from traditional international relations scholarship which has mostly focused on the European experience This book provides a groundbreaking comparative analysis of non Western states and state systems in the nineteenth century Using an original data set on independent states during this period Charles R Butcher and Ryan D Griffiths answer fundamental questions such as how many states there were when they arose and when they died documenting the large number of states that were extinguished as a consequence of European colonialism They explore the structure of nineteenth century state systems in East Asia South Asia maritime Southeast Asia and West Africa examining the effects of war trade and interaction capacity Through these case studies Butcher and Griffiths provide novel perspectives on longstanding debates over state centralization and the choice between indirect and direct forms of rule Shedding new light on the dynamics of non Western interstate relations during the nineteenth century Before Colonization reveals striking similarities between state systems across diverse historical settings
