ROLE OF SUPERVISOR

1. Before identifying the role of the Supervisor, it is necessary to have clarity about the place of Supervisor in the organization. It is necessary to understand the term "Supervision".
2. The word supervision is derived from the two words "Superior" and "Vision", one who has superior vision is the Supervisor.
3. A Supervisor or Foreman (or Fore women) is a chief worker in charge of a group of workers and who exercise such control over them as delegated to him by the Management.
4. A Supervisor is an important link or keyman between Management and workers. He is constant on the floor, more close to the workers, devoting more time in close observation of working conditions and action and has more experience of the job performance. He converts Management policy into action, with the co-operation of workers.
5. Management looks him as a floor manager in-charge of men, machine and materials and responsible for men's behavior on jobs
6. Workers look him as their representatives for the Management.
7. Management likes to influence worker's behavior through supervisor and the workers like to gain first hand knowledge through supervisor.
8. Management achieves their targets, resources, and facilities through supervisor. Therefore good supervisors are essential for effective implementation of Management policy on the shop floor.
