Writing In Limbo:

Writing in Limbo Simon Gikandi, 2018-03-15 In Simon Gikandi's view Caribbean literature and postcolonial literature more generally negotiate an uneasy relationship with the concepts of modernism and modernity a relationship in which the Caribbean writer unable to escape a history encoded by Europe accepts the challenge of rewriting it Drawing on contemporary deconstructionist theory Gikandi looks at how such Caribbean writers as George Lamming Samuel Selvon Alejo Carpentier C L R James Paule Marshall Merle Hodge Zee Edgell and Michelle Cliff have attempted to confront European modernism

Writing Out of Limbo Nina Sichel, Elaine Neil Orr, Faith Eidse, 2011-09-22 Crossing borders and boundaries countries and cultures they are the children of the military diplomatic corps international business education and missions communities They are called Third Culture Kids or Global Nomads and the many benefits of their lifestyle expanded worldview multiplicity of languages tolerance for difference are often mitigated by recurring losses of relationships of stability of permanent roots They are part of an accelerating demographic that is only recently coming into visibility In this groundbreaking collection writers from around the world address issues of language acquisition and identity formation childhood mobility and adaptation memory and grief and the artist's struggle to articulate the experience of growing up global And woven like a thread through the entire collection runs the individual's search for belonging and a place called home This book provides a major leap in understanding what it's like to grow up among worlds It is invaluable reading for the new global age

Chimeras of Form Aarthi Vadde, 2016-12-13 In the years following World War I the international emerged as a distinct scale of political and cultural focus Internationalisms proliferated in kind as writers and thinkers sought to imagine modes of cooperation that would balance transnational solidarities with national sovereignty While so called political realists across the twentieth century have regarded such attempts as wishful thinking Aarthi Vadde argues that the negotiation of wishing and thinking is at the very heart of internationalism In Chimeras of Form she shows why modernist literary form is essential to understanding the aspirational and analytical force of internationalism in and beyond Europe Major writers such as Rabindranath Tagore James Joyce Claude McKay George Lamming Michael Ondaatje and Zadie Smith use modernist strategies to reshape how readers think about the cohesion and interrelation of political communities in the wake of empire Vadde lucidly explains how their formal experiments with the novel short story poetry and political essay contribute to and sometimes even anticipate debates in postcolonial theory and cosmopolitanism She reads Joyce's use of asymmetrical narratives as a way to ask questions about international camaraderie and demonstrates how the plotless works of McKay and Lamming upturn ideas of citizenship and diasporic alienation Her analysis of twenty first century writers Smith and Shailja Patel shows how ongoing conflicts around migration displacement and global economic inequality link modernist postcolonial and contemporary traditions of literature Vadde brings these traditions together to reveal the dual nature of internationalism as an ambition possibly a chimeric one and an actual political discourse vital to understanding our present
