Blake, Deleuzian Aesthetics, and the Digital Claire Colebrook, 2012-01-12 Drawing on recent theories of digital media and on the materiality of words and images this fascinating study makes three original claims about the work of William Blake First Blake offers a critique of digital media His poetry and method of illuminated printing is directed towards uncovering an analogical language Second Blake's work can be read as a performative Finally Blake's work is at one and the same time immanent and transcendent aiming to return all forms of divinity and the sacred to the human imagination stressing that all deities reside in the human breast but it also stresses that the human has powers or potentials that transcend experience and judgement deities reside in the human breast These three claims are explored through the concept of incarnation the incarnation of ideas in words and images the incarnation of words in material books and their copies the incarnation of human actions and events in bodies and the incarnation of spirit in matter

The Journal Book for Teachers of

At-risk College Writers Susan Gardner, Toby Fulwiler, 1999 Educators across the grades and across the curriculum have long recognized the usefulness of journals to help student writers. But what about basic writers, learning disabled students, and nontraditional and returning students? One of the values of journal writing is its accessibility, yet no one has seemed to consider how at-risk students might benefit. With this new collection, the first of its kind, Susan Gardner and Toby Fulwiler provide much-needed advice. The authors of these essays are all experienced teachers of at-risk writers, both at two- and four-year colleges. They know the at-risk students they are describing. Some readers will recognize the students as basic writers in basic writing courses. Others will find chapters written by writing center directors who serve a variety of students we might term as at-risk. There are also chapters from educators who work specifically with Deaf students, ADHD students, and learning disabled students. Each one describes uses of the journal and the adjustments to the assignment that make the journal such an accessible and instructive writing genre.

The Worlds of George RR Martin Tom Huddleston, 2024-09-24 In the many realms of modern fantasy, there is only one true King, and his name is George Raymond Richard Martin. With A Song of Ice and Fire, Martin has created a world on a scale almost unrivalled by any other single writer. Approaching two million words and still evolving, this genuinely epic series of novels, with its deeply interlocking narratives, finely crafted drama, and enormous range of characters, is a creation of extraordinary breadth. So how did a writer best known for short stories come to craft such a gigantic sequence of novels, and what is the key to their extraordinary success? What sources, historical, literary, and personal, did Martin draw upon in the writing, and what inspiration did they give him? The Worlds of George R R Martin is an in-depth bringing together of the enormous range of inspirations behind Martin's work, from historical borrowings as wide-ranging as the Roman Empire, the Wars of the Roses, and the Mongol conquests, to diverse literary and mythological texts, and Martin's own family experience and biography.

Composing Other Spaces Douglas Reichert Powell, John Paul Tassoni, 2009 From publisher's description: These essays ask how place and space shape the conflicts, challenges, and opportunities of writing instruction. What new tactics for writing, and the teaching of writing, are required to adequately account for and engage with the complexities of composition's spaces and places.

Grading in the Post-process Classroom Libby Allison, Lizbeth Bryant, Maureen M. Hourigan, 1997 Grading in the Post-Process Classroom tackles that all-important and difficult issue: How do we fulfill our responsibilities to the traditional academy and still teach our students to become resistant critical thinkers? While the question is not new, new faces and voices in the field, as well as the advent of virtual writing classrooms, require different responses. Currently, most articles on the subject of grading end with the suggestion that teachers should not give grades; an alternative that few instructors find viable, especially in an era of increasing calls for teacher accountability. Grading in the Post-Process Classroom answers the question of what to do when theory and practice collide. In addition to discussions of the ideology of grading, it offers specific, alternative, theoretically informed grading schemes, from narrative evaluation, contract grading, and new ways to configure portfolio grading, to how to grade in cyberspace Included are pieces by both established scholars and new voices in the field Interspersed among the theory chapters are shorter personal self reflexive essays that consider how to negotiate political pressures within a department

African American Literacies Unleashed Arnetha F. Ball,Ted Lardner,2005 This pioneering study of African American students in the composition classroom lays the groundwork for reversing the cycle of underachievement that plagues linguistically diverse students African American Literacies Unleashed Vernacular English and the Composition Classroom approaches the issue of African American Vernacular English AAVE in terms of teacher knowledge and prevailing attitudes and it attempts to change current pedagogical approaches with a highly readable combination of traditional academic discourse and personal narratives Realizing that composition is a particular form of social practice that validates some students and excludes others Arnetha Ball and Ted Lardner acknowledge that many African American students come to writing and composition classrooms with talents that are not appreciated To empower and inform practitioners administrators teacher educators and researchers Ball and Lardner provide knowledge and strategies that will help unleash the potential of African American students and help them imagine new possibilities for their successes as writers African American Literacies Unleashed asserts that necessary changes in theory and practice can be addressed by refocusing attention from teachers knowledge deficits to the processes through which teachers engage information relevant to culturally informed pedagogy Providing strategies for unlearning racism in the classroom and changing the status quo this volume stresses the development and maintenance of a real sense of teaching efficacy teachers beliefs in their abilities to connect with and work effectively with all students and reflective optimism teachers informed expectations that all students have the potential to succeed Current Opinion Edward Jewitt Wheeler,1891 Minutes of the ...
