education from an NBC MIT joint venture into interactive learning In 2006 young people were flocking to MySpace discovering the joys of watching videos of cute animals on YouTube and playing online games Not many of them were watching network news on television they got most of their information online So when NBC and MIT launched iCue an interactive learning venture that combined social networking online video and gaming in one multimedia educational site it was perfectly in tune with the times iCue was a surefire way for NBC to reach younger viewers and for MIT to test innovative educational methods in the real world But iCue was a failure it never developed an audience and was canceled as if it were a sitcom with bad ratings In The More We Know Eric Klopfer and Jason Haas both part of the MIT development team describe the rise and fall of iCue and what it can teach us about new media old media education and the challenges of innovating in educational media Klopfer and Haas show that iCue was hampered by among other things an educational establishment focused on teaching to the test television producers uncomfortable with participatory media and confusion about the market But this is not just a cautionary tale sometimes more can be learned from an interesting failure than a string of successes Today s educational technology visionaries iPads for everyone might keep this lesson in mind
