Thoughts On Freedom Two Essays:

Thoughts on Freedom Lorin McMackin, 1982 A concise examination and description of freedom per se among humans in human interaction with the nonhuman environment and as innate human capacity The subject is freedom not politics though McMackin describes political systems in his first essay Alternatives and Restrictions and references those descriptions in illustration of human presumptive exercise of choice Democracy is accorded more attention than most systems for the help it offers in his careful study of freedom The second essay Choice and Determinism is devoted to determinism the hope that all in the full sense of that word either flows from the personal conscious decisions of a perfect creator who transcends his universe or the desire that all has been is and will be caused by the inherency of the self existing universe the relentless working of mindless matter The topic suggests meta physics the discussion does not McMackin is an accomplished essayist with a style uniquely his own and the deftness he demonstrates as he clarifies concepts through his illuminating and suggestive analyses enters while the insights challenge As McMackin writes early in his first essay We need abstract and ideal terms not because we are amused by toying mystically with impossibilities but because only through them are we able to deal intelligently with the commonplace

The Life and Thought of Lev Karsavin

Dominic Rubin, 2013 At last Russia has begun to speak in a truly original voice So said Anatoly Vaneev a Soviet dissident who became Karsavin's disciple in the Siberian gulag where the philosopher spent his last two years The book traces the unusual trajectory of this inspiring voice Karsavin started his career as Russia's brightest historian of Catholic mysticism however his radical methods which were far ahead of their time shocked his conservative colleagues The shock continued when Karsavin turned to philosophy writing flamboyant and dense essays in a polyphonic style which both Marxists and religious traditionalists found provocative There was no let up after he was expelled by Lenin from Soviet Russia in exile he became a leading theorist in the Eurasian political movement combining Orthodox theology with a left wing political orientation Finally Karsavin found stability when he was invited to teach history in Lithuania there he spent twenty years reworking his philosophy before suffering the German and Soviet invasions of his new homeland and then deportation and death Clearing away misunderstandings and putting the work and life in context this book shows how Karsavin made an original contribution to European philosophy inter religious dialogue Orthodox and Catholic theology and the understanding of history Divine Promise and Human Freedom in Contemporary Catholic Thought Kevin A. McMahon,2015-07-01 It has always been understood that the central claim of Christianity that Jesus born of Mary is the Son of God is as much a declaration of the mystery of the human as it is the mystery of God just as the claim that in virtue of this identity he is the Christ who restores and more transforms the created order intensifies the mystery of the human even further When the age of revolution was followed by the age of science and the effort to shape the environment by technology was joined by an injunction to shape societies and economies and class conflicts became part of world conflicts the question about the human emerged as a crisis in the meaning of being human Yet the Catholic mind preoccupied like every other with the crisis has conducted its reflection within a tradition of Christian humanism insisting on the mystery and the tragedy and still the dignity of the human This collection of essays by thirteen Catholic scholars of philosophy theology and political thought investigates a range of topics from human sexuality and marriage to moral freedom and responsibility in a pluralistic society while demonstrating that the Gospel passed on in an ecclesial tradition entered into through a sacramental tradition remains the one radical source of confidence in the quest for human truth Two essays:i. On the fourfold root of the principle of sufficient reason. ii. On the will in nature. A literal transl. [from the 4th ed., by J. Frauenstädt]. Arthur Schopenhauer,1889

Essays in Christian Philosophy Leonard Hodgson,1930 Harvard Law Review ,1929 The Essay Edward P. J. Corbett,Sheryl L. Finkle,1993 Provides 72 essays of varied themes that range from the 16th century to the 20th century Based on the essayistic tradition the essays cover a wide range of topics including personal identity family relationships character types the animal kingdom town and country education mortality the national pastime language social and political issues freedom of opinion the sexes and the art of the essay For courses on advanced composition freshman composition and essay as literature The London Quarterly Review William Lonsdale Watkinson,William Theophilus Davison,1930 The Harvard Graduates' Magazine ,1928 The Sociological Review ,1908 Subject Catalog, 1982 Library of Congress,1982 Difference and Dissent Cary J. Nederman,John Christian Laursen,1996 This innovative collection points to the need for a reevaluation of the origins of toleration theory Philosophers intellectual historians and political theorists have assumed that the development of the theory of toleration has been a product of the modern world and John Locke is usually regarded as the first theorist of toleration The contributors to Difference and Dissent however discuss a range of conceptual positions that were employed by medieval and early modern thinkers to support a theory of toleration and question the claim that Locke s theory of toleration was as original or philosophically adequate as his adherents have asserted Essays in Freedom Henry Woodd Nevins,1909 The Dictionary of National Biography Leslie Stephen,Sir Sidney Lee,1917 The Literary World ,1892 The Index ... Francis Ellington Abbot,William James Potter,Benjamin Franklin Underwood,1875 A Question of Academic Freedom Joel Elias Spingarn,Nicholas Murray Butler,1911 The
