Cabanne, 2009-07-21 With an introduction by Robert Motherwell and an appreciation by Jasper Johns Marcel Duchamp one of this century's pioneer artists moved his work through the retinal boundaries which had been established with Impressionism into a field where language thought and vision act upon one another There it changed form through a complex interplay of new mental and physical materials heralding many of the technical mental and visual details to be found in more recent art In the 1920s Duchamp gave up quit painting He allowed perhaps encouraged the attendant mythology One thought of his decision his willing this stopping Yet on one occasion he said it was not like that He spoke of breaking a leg You don't mean to do it he said The Large Glass A greenhouse for his intuition Erotic machinery the Bride held in a see through cage a Hilarious Picture Its cross references of sight and thought the changing focus of the eyes and mind give fresh sense to the time and space we occupy negate any concern with art as transportation No end is in view in this fragment of a new perspective In the end you lose interest so I didn't feel the necessity to finish it He declared that he wanted to kill art for myself but his persistent attempts to destroy frames of reference altered our thinking established new units of thought a new thought for that object The art community feels Duchamp's presence and his absence He has changed the condition of being religious conversion from ancient to modern times This volume explores the subject of religious conversion over broad expanses of time and space considering cases from the thirteenth through the twentieth centuries and from settings across the world Leading scholars from a variety of historical sub fields address the theme at a moment when the utility of the concept of conversion is vigorously debated The historical settings treated here stretch from thirteenth century England to sixteenth century southern India and Andean Peru from Bohemia to China during the age of the Reformations from the fifteenth century Low Countries to seventeenth century New France and from the nineteenth century Minnesota borderlands to late colonial Zimbabwe and modern India The book s broad mixture of examples and approaches will both encourage a deepening of specialist knowledge about particular places and times and spark new thinking about religious change cultural appropriations and interactive emergence across discipline and fields This book is one of two collections of essays on religious conversion drawn from the activities of the Shelby Cullum Davis Center for Historical Studies at Princeton University between 1999 and 2001 The other volume Conversion in Late Antiquity and the Early Middle Ages is also published by the University of Rochester Press Henry VIII and the English Reformation Richard Rex,2006-03-29 Abandoning the traditional narrative approach to the subject Richard Rex presents an analytical account which sets out the logic of Henry VIII s shortlived Reformation Starting with the fundamental matter of the royal supremacy Rex goes on to investigate the application of this principle to the English ecclesiastical establishment and to the traditional religion of the people He then examines the extra impetus and the new direction which Henry s regime gave to the development of a vernacular and literate devotional culture and shows how despite Henry s best intentions serious religious divisions had emerged in England by the end of his reign The study emphasises the personal role of Henry VIII in driving the Reformation process and how this process in turn considerably reinforced the monarch s power This updated edition of a powerful interpretation of Henry VIII s Reformation retains the analytical edge and stylish lucidity of the original text while taking full account of the latest research An important new chapter elucidates the way in which politics and religion interacted in early Tudor England Reprint Expediting Service Bulletin ,1973
