World To Make Development In Perspective:

A world to make Francis Xavier Sutton,1991 Perspectives on the History of Global Development Corinna R. Unger,Nicholas Ferns,Jack Loveridge,Iris Borowy,2022-10-24 What is development what has it been in the past and what can historians learn from studying the history of development How has the field of the history of development evolved over time and where should it be going in the future Critical Perspectives in Rural Development Studies Saturnino M. Borrás Jr.,2013-09-13 Agrarian transformations within and across countries have been significantly and dynamically altered during the past few decades compared to previous eras provoking a variety of reactions from rural poor communities worldwide The recent convergence of various crises financial food energy and environmental has put the nexus between rural development and development in general back onto the center stage of theoretical policy and political agendas in the world today Confronting these issues will require re engaging with critical theories taking politics seriously and utilizing rigorous and appropriate research methodologies These are the common messages and implications of the various contributions to this collection in the context of a scholarship that is critical in two senses questioning prescriptions from mainstream perspectives and interrogating popular conventions in radical thinking This book focuses on key perspectives frameworks and methodologies in agrarian change and peasant studies The contributors are leading scholars in the field of rural development studies Henry Bernstein Terence J Byres Saturnino M Borrás Jr Marc Edelman Crist bal Kay Benedict Kerkvliet Philip McMichael Shahra Razavi Ian Scoones and Teodor Shanin This book was previously published as a special issue of the Journal of Peasant Studies Science Diplomacy and Sustainable Development: Perspectives from Latin America Milena Serafim,Kleinsy Bonilla,Efraín Bámaca-López,Antonethe Castaneda,2021-10-22 Environmental Health Perspectives ,1993 Evaluation Country Development Policies and Programs Robert Picciotto,Ray C. Rist,1995-10-02 This issue of New Directions for Evaluation deals with the special evaluation problems of programs in the developing world Over the last two decades the framework of economic and social development policy and practice has been transformed This is due in part to evaluation lessons which have helped to shape the new development priorities toward sustainability participation and insitutional development In turn evaluation must deal with the consequences of a more demanding agenda a more fractured development constituency and a vastly more complex set of analytical questions This publication presents the views of development policy makers practitioners and evaluators on the kinds of adjustments needed in the approaches instruments and processes used by development evaluators The chapters were discussed in draft form at a Conference on Evaluation and Development hosted by the world Bank in Washington D C in December 1994 The resulting collection offers a consistent framework for further debate and proposes new emphases for development evaluation This is the 67th issue in the journal series New Directions for Evaluation For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals page African Development Perspectives: A Holistic Reflection T A Ngwana,2024-01-05 Africa remains a continent that is yet to achieve its full potentials despite an abundance of resources and a rich cultural pedigree. There have been various attempts to dissect the impediments to the continent's progress in its march towards development and true independence. Consequently, this book moves away from mere identification of challenges to proffering solutions. The ideas put forward about African development in this book draw from a multiplicity of backgrounds. They are also offered through the prism of the lived experiences of contributors who are keen on engendering an African solution that weaves global dynamics into Africa's cultural context and did not shy away from identifying themselves as global citizens from Africa. The compelling read is a critical appraisal of germane issues in Africa's quest for development which speaks truth to both the powerful and the powerless within and beyond Africa on why prioritising Africa's development is as pressing as the Global climate catastrophe.

A World to Make Francis Xavier Sutton, A World to Make treats a subject that is both complex and controversial. Since the end of the Second World War and with increasing rapidity in the 1950s and 1960s, Europe's former colonial possessions acquired independence and emerged as new states with new frontiers. That process proved to be immensely difficult both for those who had recently acquired their independence and for those in Latin America and elsewhere who had enjoyed that status for a century or longer. Earlier paradigms of development have either broken down or have been subject to serious modification. The chemistry of development reveals itself as an unstable compound of diverse political, social, cultural, and intellectual elements, not to speak of many that remain primarily economic. The conflicts and institutional interests are so varied that any simple theory of nation building or modernization modeled on past patterns of development in the capitalist West or Communist East seem inadequate. As editor Francis X Sutton points out, this volume views development in its broad historical complexity as an organizing principle of governments and international relations as a set of ideas or ideologies and as a series of programs and practices. Achieving such goals in a single volume required reaching beyond the narrow confines of developmentalists as such to experts in a variety of fields ranging from history to education. The work features a major study by the historian William H. McNeill on Control and Catastrophe in Human Affairs, D. Anthony Low on Development Contexts, Francis X Sutton on Developmental Ideology: Its Emergence and Decline, John P. Lewis on Government and National Economic Development, Mohamed Naciri on Educational Processes and Access to Knowledge, and Paul Krugman on Developing Countries in the World Economy. In each case, the major essay is followed by a sharp analysis and commentary. The work is of intense potential value to international economists, comparative political scientists, and those who stress the important role of volition and culture in the development process. Francis X Sutton is retired deputy vice president of The Ford Foundation. Since his retirement in 1981, he has served as consultant to the Ford Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation, and the World Bank. He is the author of The American Business Creed and wrote the introduction to the new Transaction edition of The Ford Foundation by Dwight Macdonald.

Economic Development Jan S. Hogendorn, 1996. Analyzes the basic theories of development and explores current issues relevant to less developed countries.

House of Commons - International Development Committee: Implications for Development in the Event of Scotland Becoming an Independent Country - HC 692 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: International Development Committee,2013-12-19 The UK's aid programme much of which is delivered from Scotland is genuinely transformational The UK provided 8.7 billion of aid in 2012-13 but it is the quality of this aid not just its quantity which sets the UK apart As part of the UK Scotland makes a tremendous contribution to all this If Scotland were to become an independent country its development agency would inevitably be a much smaller player From 2013 onwards the UK Government plans to spend 0.7% of Gross National Income on Official Development Assistance If Scotland were to become independent the UK's overall GNI and the amount of money it spends on ODA would fall Scotland has 8.3% of the UK's population share so we estimate that the UK's ODA would fall by around 8.3% or 1 billion DFID's work either its bilateral programmes or its funding to multilateral organisations would inevitably then be subject to cuts MPs are also concerned that during any transitional period the restructuring of DFID and the setup of an independent Scottish development agency would divert management attention towards restructuring and away from frontline delivery by both agencies In addition a significant proportion of DFID's workforce is based at its Scottish office in East Kilbride including a number of senior staff By contrast the number of jobs available with an independent Scottish development agency is likely to be relatively few or the new Scottish development agency would be heavily overstaffed The impact on jobs would therefore be substantial

Trust, Tourism Development and Planning Robin Nunkoo, Stephen L.J. Smith, 2014-08-07 The dynamics of trust and distrust are central to understanding modern society social relations and development processes However numerous studies suggest that societal trust and citizen's trust in government and its institutions are on the decline challenging the legitimacy of government and leading to an undemocratic and unsustainable form of development Recognizing its importance the authors for the first time situate trust within the context of tourism development and planning This volume discusses trust in tourism from different yet intrinsically connected perspectives Chapters review how diminishing societal trust may have adversely affected tourism planning systems the role of trust in good tourism governance and sustainable tourism how trust can be used as a facilitator of participatory tourism planning political trust in tourism institutions power and how tourism development can be a basis for trust creation among society members by using social capital theory In addition a final section on Researching Trust in Tourism Development means that readers are not only provided a thorough theoretical framework on trust and an understanding of its importance
