Unschooling Kerry McDonald, 2019-05-07 Education has become synonymous with schooling but it doesn't have to be As schooling becomes increasingly standardized and test driven occupying more of childhood than ever before parents and educators are questioning the role of schooling in society Many are now exploring and creating alternatives In a compelling narrative that introduces historical and contemporary research on self directed education Unschooling also spotlights how a diverse group of individuals and organizations are evolving an old schooling model of education These innovators challenge the myth that children need to be taught in order to learn They are parents who saw firsthand how schooling can dull children's natural curiosity and exuberance and others who decided early on to enable their children to learn without school Educators who left public school classrooms discuss launching self directed learning centers to allow young people's innate learning instincts to flourish and entrepreneurs explore their disillusionment with the teach and test approach of traditional schooling A Cognitive Method to Promote Literacy Among Rural Children in Brazil Sônia Maria Ribeiro Moreira, 1978

Museums, Children and Social Action Sharon E. Shaffer, 2023-12-15 Museums Children and Social Action examines the role that museums play in reaching teaching and inspiring children as global citizens of the world and looking to the future argues that the sustainability of museums will come from strengthening relationships with young visitors Presenting a diverse range of programs exhibitions and outreach from museums across five continents Shaffer highlights how museums are already serving children and making a difference in their lives Arguing that museums have a unique responsibility to connect this audience with relevant social issues and challenges such as social injustice racism climate change and poverty

Shaffer simultaneously acknowledges that a large number of children are still on the margins of the institution and its mission. Recognizing the ways in which museums are currently serving children, the book also considers what museums could and should be doing as they plan for the future, raising critical questions about core values, community partners, and social agendas. Museums, Children, and Social Action is essential reading for academics and students engaged in the study of museums, social justice, and childhood. It encourages museums to make it their mission to educate and serve this audience and their families for the good of children, as well as museums while also considering what their institutions can do to make a lasting impact on children and their families.

Environmental Education in Context, 2009-01-01. This book presents an international perspective on environmental education and specifically the influence that context has on this aspect of curriculum. The focus is on environmental education, both formal and non-formal, and the factors that impact upon its effectiveness, particularly in non-Western and non-English speaking contexts, i.e. outside the UK, USA, Australia, NZ, etc. An important feature of the book is that it draws upon the experiences and research from local experts from an extremely diverse cohort across the world, 25 countries and 2 regions in total. The book addresses topics such as the development of environmental education in different countries, its implementation, the influence of political, cultural, societal, or religious mores, governmental or ministerial drives, economic or other pressures driving curriculum reform, the influence of external assessment regimes on environmental education, and so on.
