The Vegan Studies Project Laura Wright, 2015-10 This inescapably controversial study envisions defines and theorizes an area that Laura Wright calls vegan studies We have an abundance of texts on vegans and veganism including works of advocacy literary and popular fiction film and television and cookbooks yet until now there has been no study that examines the social and cultural discourses shaping our perceptions of veganism as an identity category and social practice Ranging widely across contemporary American society and culture Wright unpacks the loaded category of vegan identity She examines the mainstream discourse surrounding and connecting animal rights to or omitting animal rights from veganism Her specific focus is on the construction and depiction of the vegan body both male and female as a contested site manifest in contemporary works of literature popular cultural representations advertising and new media At the same time Wright looks at critical animal studies human animal studies posthumanism and ecofeminism as theoretical frameworks that inform vegan studies even as they differ from it The vegan body says Wright threatens the status quo in terms of what we eat wear and purchase and also in how vegans choose not to participate in many aspects of the mechanisms undergirding mainstream culture These threats are acutely felt in light of post 9 11 anxieties over American strength and virility A discourse has emerged that seeks among other things to bully veganism out of existence as it is poised to alter the dominant cultural mindset or conversely to constitute the vegan body as an idealized paragon of health beauty and strength What better serves veganism is exemplified by Wright's study openness debate inquiry and analysis
