A former clerk in the Prussian Geological Survey later a lieutenant in the reserve named Von Bleichroden sat in his shirt sleeves before a writing table in the Caf du Cercle the best inn of the little town Marlotte. He had thrown his military coat with its stiff collar over the back of a chair and there it hung limp and collapsed like a corpse with its empty arms seeming to clutch at the legs of the chair to keep itself from falling headlong. Round the body of the coat one saw the mark of the sword belt and the left coat tail was rubbed quite smooth by the sheath. The back of the coat was as dusty as a high road and the lieutenant geologist might have studied the tertiary deposits of the district on the edges of his much worn trousers. When the orderlies came into the room with their dirty boots he could tell by the traces they left on the floor whether they had been walking over Eocene or Pleiocene formations. He was really more a geologist than a soldier but for the present he was a letter writer. He had pushed his spectacles up to his forehead sat with his pen at rest and looked out of the window.
