Josephus Reinhard Pummer,2009 The first century C E Jewish historian Flavius Josephus is our main source of information for the early history of the Samaritans a community closely related to Judaism whose development as an independent religion is commonly dated in the Hellenistic Roman period Josephus two main works Jewish War and Jewish Antiquities contain a number of passages that purport to describe the origin character and actions of the Samaritans In composing his histories Josephus drew on different sources some identifiable others unknown to us Contemporary Josephus research has shown that he did so not as a mere compiler but as a creative writer who selected and quoted his sources carefully and deliberately and employed them to express his personal views Rather than trying to isolate and identify Josephus authorities and to determine the meaning these texts had in their original setting Reinhard Pummer examines what Josephus himself intended to convey to his audience when he depicted the Samaritans in the way he did He attempts to combine composition criticism and historical research and argues that the differences in Josephus portrayal of the Samaritans in War on the one hand and in Antiquities on the other are due to the different aims the historian pursued in the two works

Out of Exile, not out of Babylon

Volker Glissmann,2019-03-21 Exile and the disruption of the exilic period are prominent features in scholarly reconstructions of what influenced the shaping of biblical books and the development of theological thinking The Babylonian golah community as an exilic community is credited by a growing number of scholars with influencing large parts of the Hebrew Bible This study addresses the question whether the redactions show signs of an exilic mindset first generation exiles or are better understood as a reflection of a diaspora mindset second third and subsequent generations This study also reviews all known archaeological diaspora findings from Mesopotamia in the pre Hellenistic period aided by insights from Elephantine in order to build an as comprehensive as possible picture of Jewish diaspora life in Mesopotamia

Constructing Exile John Hill,2020-07-30 What happens to a community when it is destroyed by a foreign power How do survivors face the future Is it all over for them In Constructing Exile John Hill investigates how the people of ancient Judah survived invasion and destruction at the hands of the Babylonians Although some of them were deported to Babylon they created a new identity for themselves and then once they were back in Judah they tried to recreate the past Hill examines the way that later generations used the experience of the Babylonian invasion to interpret the crises of their own times He shows how by the time of Jesus exile had become an image Judaism used to understand itself and its story

The Wild Mother

Elizabeth Cunningham,2023-04-11 Enter the world of The Wild Mother modern fairytale bold biblical midrash filled with the psychological depth and imaginative originality for which the author of The Maeve Chronicles is known Elizabeth Cunningham s classic feminist novel is as fresh and timeless today as when it was first released in 1993 to critical acclaim Adam Underwood and Eva Brooke appear to be made for each other Both are single parents Both are academics he a dazzling enigmatic professor of Alchemy she a humble but dedicated professor of Fairytales Adam s children Ionia and Fred share a latchkey after school with Eva s precocious son Jason So why don t Adam and Eva marry and live happily ever after

Eva can't help wondering Pathologically polite she cannot bring herself to ask personal questions She struggles not to find it strange that Adam has never so much as mentioned his children's absent mother Nor has Adam's own mother cum housekeeper the feisty outspoken Ursula ever uttered her name Yet Eva glimpses the missing woman in ten year old Ionia's haunted and haunting purple eyes and in Ionia's drawings of a woman dancing on the crest of a hill wild black hair spread out against the sky Then one night she returns Lilith the wild mother The precarious status quo that Eva Adam and their families have achieved is shattered and their world is turned inside out or more precisely outside in As wild breaks into their lives Adam obsessed with control attempts to seal them all in a deadly trap Now a crucial challenge confronts each one of them Will these very human beings embrace their own wildness risking all they value and understand Or will they deny the freedom essential to Lilith's nature and their own

Barstad, 1996 The starting point for this book is the widespread belief that Palestine was completely depopulated after Nebuchadnezzar's destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BC until 583 BC when the exiles returned from Babylonia The author points out that this belief is based ultimately on the Bible itself which has resulted in a biased view of that period of history Furthermore he argues current terminology in scholarly readings of the Bible such as exile return and restoration have hindered the understanding of what actually happened in Judah during the 6th century Archaeological excavations have now demonstrated beyond a doubt the continued existence of a considerable Israelite material culture during the exile and post exilic periods in the Negev particularly in the area of Benjamin and the Judean Hills and probably in Jerusalem
