State And Identity Construction In International Relations:

The State and Identity Construction in International Relations Sarah Owen Vandersluis, 2000 Several international relations scholars present their views on the changing meanings of sovereignty and legitimacy in the late 20th century and discuss the connections between identity and the post Cold War era Nationalism and Identity Construction in Central Asia Mariya Y. Omelicheva, 2014-12-17 More than two decades after the break up of the Soviet Union Central Asian republics Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan continue to reexamine and debate whom and what they represent Nationalism and Identity Construction in Central Asia explores the complex and controversial process of identity formation in the region using a 3D framework which stands for Dimensions Dynamics and Directions of nation building The first part of the framework dimensions underscores the new and complex ways in which nationalisms and identities manifest themselves in Central Asia The second part dynamics is premised on the idea that nationalisms and identity construction in the Central Asian republics may indicate some continuities with the past but are more concerned with legitimation of the present power politics in these states It calls for the identification of the main actors strategies tactics interests and reactions to the processes of nationalism and identity construction The third part of the framework directions addresses implications of nationalisms and identity construction in Central Asia for regional and international peace and cooperation Jointly the chapters of the volume address domestic and international level dimensions dynamics and directions of identity formation in Central Asia What unites these works is their shared modern and post modern understanding of nations nationalisms and identities as discursive strategic and tactical formations They are viewed as constructed and imagined and therefore continuously changing but also fragmented and contested State Identity Politics and the Making of East Asia Minran Liu, 2026-02-17 East Asia is shaped as much by identity based dynamics as by material forces This book examines how the evolving state identities of China and Japan have interacted with the regional order and its prospects for both cooperation and conflict While identity based dynamics have long been recognised as enduring features by observers of East Asia conventional accounts often emphasise the absence of a shared identity persistent historical grievances and nationalism fuelled territorial disputes particularly between China and Japan as key obstacles to regional cooperation This volume instead offers a state identity politics approach that moves beyond viewing the ghosts of the past as fixed constraints It focuses on how domestic actors in both countries construct and mobilise state identities how domestic politics interact with international relations and how these identities shape regional order Through analysis of China's and Japan's evolving approaches to key post Cold War regional initiatives the author demonstrates why state identity politics is vital to understanding Sino Japanese relations and broader regional dynamics in East Asia This book will be of interest to scholars and students of East Asian politics Sino Japanese relations diplomatic studies and domestic international interactions as well as policymakers engaged in these fields Strategic Narratives Alister Miskimmon, Ben O'Loughlin, Laura

Roselle, 2014-02-18 Communication is central to how we understand international affairs. Political leaders, diplomats, and citizens recognize that communication shapes global politics. This has only been amplified in a new media environment characterized by Internet access to information, social media, and the transformation of who can communicate and how. Soft power, public diplomacy 2.0, network power, scholars, and policymakers are concerned with understanding what is happening. This book is the first to develop a systematic framework to understand how political actors seek to shape order through narrative projection in this new environment. To explain the changing world order, the rise of the BRICS, the dilemmas of climate change, poverty, and terrorism, the intractability of conflict, the authors explore how actors form and project narratives and how third parties interpret and interact with these narratives. The concept of strategic narrative draws together the most salient of international relations concepts, including the links between power and ideas, international and domestic, and state and non-state actors. The book is anchored around four themes: order, actors, uncertainty, and contestation. Through these Strategic Narratives shows both the possibilities and the limits of communication and power and makes an important contribution to theorizing and studying empirically contemporary international relations. International Studies Association International Communication Best Book Award Japan and the Emotional Politics of National Image Paul A. Kowert, 2016-04-01 An innovative model for understanding how emotion shapes perceptions of Japan and influences its diplomacy. For countries, national image matters. Although Japan is often ranked among the most popular countries in the world, its negative image in China and South Korea bedevils its diplomacy with these two close neighbors. If Japan wishes to improve its image in these two countries, one its largest trading partner, the other a key strategic ally, it must gain a better understanding of how this image is formed. Japan and the Emotional Politics of National Image examines the way emotion shapes perceptions of Japan and influences its diplomacy. Kowert traces how the emotional dynamics of international relations delineate shifts in national image that cannot be explained solely by geopolitics, domestic politics, or historical memory. With evidence drawn from case histories, statements by leading politicians, and text analyses of newspapers, the book reveals that Chinese and Korean attitudes toward Japan are more variable than is commonly appreciated and vary in ways that can be predicted by improved models of political emotion. With this book, scholars of international relations and of Japanese and Asian politics will gain new insights into Japan's anxieties about its own image abroad. The Power of Words in International Relations Charlotte Epstein, 2008 The role of discursive power in shaping international relations analysed through the lens of whaling politics. The Weapons State David Mutimer, 2000 The proliferation of all kinds of weapons is a focal point for international security. This work shows how both the language used to talk about weapons proliferation and the practices adopted to respond to it serve to define the problem in ways that promote policy responses doomed to failure. State, Territory and Identity Tom Gullberg, 2000 Journal of Peace Research, 2006-07 China's Projected Image - A Structured, Focused Comparison in the United States of America Arda Can Çelik, 2011-07 Master's

Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Politics Political systems in general and in comparison grade VG Uppsala University Department of Peace and Conflict Research course Political Science Diplomacy language English abstract This study provides an examination about China's projected image and explores how China implements various concepts and channels for image building activities It also displays the reasons and motivation points of image projection as a national policy This national policy gives a reference to Chinese grand strategy which is embodied in Chinese Soft Power Bearing this in mind the study provides an explanation about the sources of projected image In order to follow the right track the study primarily establishes an internal examination within China thereafter it explores the projection process within the U S case This approach enables to understand the changing U S views of China and also pursues to find the dynamics of U S public perception In regards to the analysis the study examines the Chinese efforts which try to build a favourable image in the minds of Americans This process leads the study to explore the tools for the projected adjustment It displays that which implementations took place to affect the U S society Furthermore the study gives the reasons of Chinese PR and PD engagements which indicate the possible rewards for Chinese Power This dimension targets to re design the public perceptions which are also embodied in Beijing's charm offensive Thus China aims to fill the gap between her comprehensive power capacity and the concept of soft power
