State Of The Worlds Forests 2003:

State of the World's Forests Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2003 State of the World's Forests 2003 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO),2003 Of the 5th ed of the report of the same title State of the World's Forests 2003 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2003 Forest Policies, Laws, and Governance in India Asheem Srivastav,2024-07-16 The book delves into the intricate relationship between India's forest governance laws and policies over time examining their effects on the quality and coverage of the country's forests. Historically especially during the British era and the initial phase following independence forests were valued for timber leading to increased deforestation to fulfill the rising demands of shipbuilding railways residential construction and industry. The economic benefits derived from converting forest land for developmental purposes were a key factor in this trend. However recent statistics indicate that except Maharashtra most of the forest rich states including MP and Chhattisgarh have lagged in economic development. The history of overexploitation and diversion for non forestry use has also led to less forest area per capita. India has lost tree biomass much more than its productivity potential and the average biological productivity of Indian forest is much below the global average. It is extremely important to restore the health of natural forests which are by far the best and a highly cost effective carbon sequestering machine provided by nature. The book also provides research data both at national and global scales to convincingly put forward the contention that natural forests are sine qua non and under no circumstances can farm and roadside plantations tea and coffee plantations and orchards be a substitute for natural forest for three important reasons 1 the influence of natural forest on rainfall 2 the complexity in maintaining energy flow and 3 the impact of natural forest or deforested sites on soil The New Atlas of Planet Management Norman Myers,Jennifer Kent,2005 The editors present a graphics driven state of the planet survey of natural systems human impact on those systems and how to manage them for a sustainable future Africa Environment Outlook 2 United Nations Environment Programme,2006 This is the second comprehensive report on the state of Africa's environment produced in collaboration with the African Ministerial Conference on the Environment AMCEN.
