Tax Increment Financing And Economic Development:

Tax Increment Financing and Economic Development, Second Edition Craig L. Johnson, Kenneth A. Kriz, 2019-07-10 This book brings together leading experts to examine the evolving nature of tax increment financing TIF the most widely used tool of local economic and community development Originally designed as an innovative approach to the redevelopment of blighted areas it has become a more general purpose tool of economic and community development Contributors offer case studies of the uses structures and impacts of TIF projects alongside more general discussions on the theoretical financial and legal bases for the use of TIF They also explore its effect on overlapping jurisdictions such as cities counties and school districts Some of the case studies capture TIF at its best redeveloping areas that would likely never develop without substantial incentives Other cases highlight questionable uses especially where it has been used in new ways that those who developed the tool never envisioned Originally published in 2001 the book was called a major contribution to the debate on the efficacy of such economic development financing tools as TIF by the journal Public Budgeting Finance Clear comprehensive and timely this new edition features the latest research and thinking on TIF including the political legal and even ethical issues surrounding its use

Tax Increment Financing and Economic Development Craig L. Johnson, Kenneth A. Kriz, 2019 Examines the many issues raised by TIF the most widely used tool of local economic and community development Financing Economic Development in the 21st Century Sammis B. White, Zenia Z. Kotval, 2012-08-07 Completely revised this new edition presents a well balanced set of economic development financing tools and techniques focused on our current times of economic austerity While traditional public sector techniques are evaluated and refocused this volume emphasizes the role of the private sector and the increasing need for cobbling together different techniques and sources to create a workable financial development package The chapters address critical assessments of various methods as well as practical advice on how to implement these various techniques New chapters on entrepreneurship the changing nature of the community banking system and the increasing need for partnerships provides critical insights into the ever evolving practice of economic development finance Key features Provides a comprehensive view of financing methods public private and a combination of both sectors Includes an up to date evaluation of traditional and new financing techniques and the limitations and opportunities of each Addresses current economic issues including a chapter on banking reform Includes completely revised sections on private and entrepreneurial finance as well as public finance

Improving Tax Increment Financing (TIF) for Economic Development David Merriman, 2018-09-05 Economist David Merriman of the University of Illinois at Chicago reviews more than 30 individual studies in the most comprehensive assessment of tax increment financing TIF with practical recommendations for policy makers and practitioners The report finds that while TIF has the potential to draw investment into neglected places it has not accomplished the goal of promoting economic development in most cases First implemented in the 1950s TIF funds economic development within a defined district by earmarking increases in future property tax revenues that result from increases in real estate values in the district. The tax revenue can be used for public infrastructure or to compensate private developers for their investments but TIF is prone to several pitfalls: it often captures some revenues that would have been generated through normal appreciation in property values; it can be exploited by cities to obtain revenues that would otherwise go to overlying government entities such as school districts; and it can make cities' financial decisions less transparent by separating them from the normal budget process. The report recommends several ways that state and local policy makers can reform TIF practices going forward.

Tax Increment Financing (in Minnesota) James Noble, Roger Brooks, 1997-04

Since the late 1980s the Minnesota Legislature has enacted important reforms to Tax Increment Financing (TIF), the development tool that enables cities and other jurisdictions to capture the additional taxes which are generated by a development project to finance up front site preparation or acquisition costs. The purpose of the reforms was to limit the use of TIF to certain kinds of development projects and to eliminate abuses of the financing tool. While the amount of captured tax capacity grew by an average of 24% yr between 1984 and 1989, it slowed to just 2% yr between 1990 and 1995.

Financing Economic Development Richard D. Bingham, Edward Hill, Sammis B. White, 1990-03-01

This comprehensive source and description of the tools available for financing economic development is divided up into well defined areas making it easy to use for reference and guidance. It covers all aspects of the concept and makes a full discussion of all types of financing from public funds to private loans and venture capital. This will be an important book for professionals and undergraduates in urban studies, public administration and policy studies.

A Thesis to Investigate the Effectiveness of Tax Increment Financing (TIF) as an Economic Development Incentive in Los Angeles Hala Misfer Alotaibi, 2013

Economic Development Tax Incentive Study, 2017

Pursuant to North Dakota Century Code Section 54-35-26 created by 2015 Senate Bill No 2057, a variety of economic development tax incentives are to be reviewed by a Legislative Management interim committee every 6 years. The study is aimed at ensuring that economic development tax incentives are serving their intended purposes in a cost effective and equitable manner. This memorandum has been provided to assist in the review of tax increment financing (TIF) districts and provides an explanation of TIF districts, the perceived goals of the Legislative Assembly in creating or altering TIF district provisions and the data and testimony that will be required to conduct an effective analysis of TIF districts Tax Increment Financing Jim Culotta,National Association of Counties. Financing Economic Development in the 21st Century Sammis B. White,Zenia Z. Kotval,2014-12-18 The fully revised new edition of this textbook presents a well balanced set of economic development financing tools and techniques focused on our current times of economic austerity While traditional public sector techniques are evaluated and refocused this volume emphasizes the role of the private sector and the increasing need to bring together different techniques and sources to create a workable financial development package The chapters address critical assessments of various methods as well as practical advice on how to implement these techniques New chapters on entrepreneurship the changing nature of the community banking system and the increasing need for partnerships provides critical insights into the ever evolving practice of economic development finance How Tax Increment Financing (TIF) Districts Correlate with Taxable Properties Randall K. Johnson,2018 This article deals with Tax Increment Financing TIF which is a popular economic development tool TIF borrows against future tax revenues to subsidize current development projects In Illinois this economic development tool is justified by its promise to expand the local tax base by increasing tax revenues increasing the number of tax payers or increasing the number of taxable properties in the area However it is not clear that TIF delivers on its promise A new dataset which is introduced in this article helps to clarify the issue It does so by providing information about the number of TIF Districts in suburban Cook County Illinois the number of taxable properties therein and the nature of the relationship between these variables If these variables move together which would indicate that TIF Districts positively correlate with taxable properties this article will find that TIF delivers on its promise
