Parks and Open Spaces Committee, John James Sexby, 1906 Mending Privately Owned Public Spaces Adriana Cobo Corey, 2025-12-02 This book is motivated by a simple observation Privately Owned Public Spaces or POPS are overlooked sites when it comes to exploring the subject of taste in architecture and urban design The book unpacks the intricate world that unfolds from this thought while arguing that taste is a missing key in current spatial practice discourse Successful POPS are often presented as desirable additions to urban redevelopment projects in cities across the world This perception often overshadows and sometimes dismisses some of the more damaging impacts that the establishment of POPS has on the social tissue of specific localities and social groups and more generally on the socio political dynamics of cities Within the fields of architecture and urban design high regard for specific urban regeneration projects with POPS at their heart tends to ignore their inherently divisive social impact This in turn strengthens an often legitimised belief that analysing questioning and re aligning such impact falls outside the realm of these professions This book explores how successful POPS are sustained through among other maintenance practices carefully managed aesthetic codes largely dependent on showcasing the aesthetic value of highly controlled programmes of use This specific practice turns POPS into revealing sites when it comes to exploring taste in the context of spatial practice Why don't we talk about taste in socially engaged practice today Does a focus on aesthetics pose an ethical dilemma between superficiality and depth for practitioners in the face of persistent social inequity

Contesting Public Spaces Ed Wall,2022-06-01 This book explores concerns for spatial justice as streets squares and neighbourhoods are continuously made and remade through planning processes political ambitions and everyday activities By investigating three sites in London that have been the focus of masterplanning Ed Wall exposes conflicts between planning offices and private developers who direct large urban change and community groups market traders and residents whose public lives are inseparable from their neighbourhoods being reconfigured The book uniquely brings sociological approaches to what are often considered architectural concerns revealing challenges as London's public spaces are designed regulated and lived Through in depth research Ed Wall identifies how uncertainty caused by large scale urban strategies the realisation of visual priorities and uneven relations between private interests public organisations and daily lives determine the public realm of global cities This work is intended for readers interested in how the urban spaces of their cities are continually produced in competing ways from architecture and urban studies scholars to planners and politicians The European City and Green Space Peter Clark,2006 This book explores the multiplicity of green space developments in the modern city and the many influences shaping their evolution Focusing on four northern European metropolises London Stockholm Helsinki and St Petersburg it examines how each has resp City as Landscape Tom Turner,2014-04-04 In twenty essays this book covers aspects of planning architecture urban design landscape architecture park and garden design Their approach described as post postmodern is a challenge to the anything goes eclecticism of the merely postmodern

The British Architect ,1899 City Gardens Brian Plummer,Don Shewan,1992 The historic City of London the Square Mile is one of the world's most densely built up urban areas yet within this close grained urban fabric exist a great number of green oases gardens and open spaces which provide recreation and respite for thousands who work in the City This authoritative and lavishly produced work illustrated in full colour throughout provides a guide inventory and appraisal of all the open spaces in the City A specially designed full colour Trails section allows visitors and locals to explore familiar and less familiar corners of the city As both a major land use survey and an unusual addition to London's guidebook literature this book will have wide appeal London Parks and Open Spaces John J. Hudson: Green mansions; a romance of the tropical forest William Henry Hudson,1923 The Laws of England Hardinge Stanley Giffard Earl of Halsbury,1912 Measuring Public Space: The Star Model Georgiana Varna,2016-05-13 In the rapidly expanding public space debate of the past few years a recurring theme is the loss of publicness of contemporary urban public places This book takes up the challenge to find an objective way to prove or disprove this phenomenon By taking the reader through a systematic and multi disciplinary literature review it asks the deceptively simple question What is publicness It answers this by first developing a new theoretical approach The dual nature of public space and secondly a new analytical tool for measuring it The Star Model of Publicness This pragmatic approach to analysing public space is tested then on three new public places recently created on the post industrial waterfront of the River Clyde in the city of Glasgow UK By seeing where and why certain public places fail direct and informed interventions can be made to improve them and through this contribute to the building of more attractive and sustainable cities By adopting a multi disciplinary approach to shed light on this slippery concept this book shows how urban design can complement other disciplines when tackling the complex task of understanding and improving the built environment s public realm It also bridges the gap between theory and practice as it draws from empirical research to suggest more quantitative approaches towards auditing and improving public places
